Rumins

On searching the ruins on the site of Nixon & Co.'s store on Washington street this morning, a small bundle of charred human remains was found. It was impossible to identify the remains, but it is known that two men perished in the flames at that place.

Leather Market.

NEW YORK, Nov. 13.—It is estimated that fully 150,000 hides of leather were destroyed at the Boston fire. Prices have advanced considerably. Unfinished leather has advanced 10 per cent.; sole leather 5 to 6 per cent, and further advances are anticipated in the course of a month. Sheep skins are high.

Market for Woolens.

It is estimated that 30,000,000 pounds of wool, including manufactured woolens, were destroyed in the fire. The price here has advanced 10 per cent., and is expected to go higher Conference on the Situation.

BOSTON, Nov. 13.—A meeting of citizens to confer upon present emergencies and future contingencies resulting from the fire, was held at Tremont Hall to day, Mayor Gaston presiding. In opening the meeting, Mayor Gaston said: "While I regret the days so full of disaster and destruction which have led to the necessity for this meeting, I rejoice to believe that you have come here with resolute hearts and determined wills, not to find fault, but with the spirit of sympathy and generous manhood, to meet the wants of the hour. [Applause.] They had met to relieve distress and adopt means to restore to more than its original beauty and to more than its original security, the burnt portion of the city. If any had come here for any other purpose they had mistaken the spirit of the meeting. He had received offers of sympathy and aid from all parts of the country, and he would be false to the city if he failed thus publicly to acknowledge with gratitude such expression. From our own citizens have come manifestations of the same spirit, which made him rejoice that God had given to them large hearts and large means."

Other addresses were made and resolutions adopted in favor of the reconstruction of street lines of the burned district on a better plan; prohibiting mansard roofs, also in favor of erecting a Merchants' Exchange in the same central locality, favoring an extra session of the Legislature to authorize the issuance of building bonds by the city, and for an application to the General Government for an extension of new postoffice buildings upon the burnt over lot adjoining, and for an act of Congress allowing drawbacks on building material.

Arrival.

NEW YORK, Nov. 13.—Charles Francis Adams arrived by the steamship Russia to-day.

Horse Disease.

WHEELING, Nov. 13.—The epizootic has reached this city and is spreading with its usual rapidity. This is its first appearance in this State.

CINCINNATI, Nov. 13—The horse disease is steadily increasing. Business is seriously impaired in consequence. Men drew the engines to a fire this morning.

Shooting an Editor

LOGANSPORT, Ind., Nov. 13.—William C. Moran, editor of the Logansport Sun, was shot to-day and seriously if not fatally wounded, by Judge Dykeman, a prominent citizen. The cause of the shooting was an article in last week's Sun denouncing Dykeman. A mob of fifty men, employed by Dykeman, sought to tar and feather Moran last night, but were prevented by the police and six arrested.

LATER.—Maj. Moran is not so seriously wounded as at first supposed.

The Fate of Col Evans.

NEW YORK, Nov. 13.—William Jones, a seaman on the ill fated steamer Missouri, and who was among the few who escaped, arrived here a day or two since in company with other survivors. His story of the disaster and his escape contains an item of painful interest to the friends of Col. Albert S. Evans, inasmuch as it undoubtedly furnishes the only certain clue to his fate. There was a passenger, a Colonel somebody, I don't know his name, jumped overboard from the ship, and after we had been out adrift tried to get into our boat, but he sank again and never rose.

George Grant.

WESTCHESTER, Pa., Nov. 13.—George Grant, convicted of the murder of Andrew A. Spence, a year ago, was hanged here at 11 o'clock this morning. Grant has been quiet since his attack on keeper Harris several days ago. He slept well last night and ate a hearty breakfast. The scaffold was erected in the corner of the prison yard out of view of prisoners or public.

The Albany Bank Robbery.

ALBANY, N. Y., Nov. 13.—One of the small safes of the Waterford Bank was found on West street, near the dock, to day. Its contents when in the bank were some $34,000 worth of bonds which went into the bay and were found yesterday. There were twenty gold and seal rings, some of them heir looms, which had been in possession of the families owning them over a century. It has been ascertained that a man named Ford, of Clifton, had $80,000 in bonds deposited in the bank, the loss of which was unknown before. The total amount taken by the thieves is computed at $440,000. No trace of the robbers.

A Gale.

BANGOR, Me., Nov. 13.—A heavy gale commenced here last evening and raged throughout the night with great fury. The schooner Seraph was blown ashore. It is reported that two or three others are ashore below.

NEW POSTAL CODE.

Although extracts from the new postal code have frequently been published, many persons are still ignorant of its provisions, and even business men are constantly making mistakes, thus subjecting themselves to increased postage and fines. We here publish some of the main features of the code as to rates of postage and rulings of the Department upon the same

1. The division of mailable matter into three classes remains as heretofore. First, letters; second, regular printed matter, third, miscellaneous matter. (Sec. 130.)

FIRST CLASS.

This embraces all correspondence, wholly or partly, in writing, except book manuscripts and corrected proof-sheets, passing between authors and publishers. (Sec. 131.)

Letters by mail, from one Postoffice to another, for each half ounce or fraction thereof, prepaid by postage stamps, three cents. (Sec. 150.)

Drop or local letters, at other than letter carrier offices, for each one-half ounce or fraction thereof, prepaid by postage stamps, one cent. (Sec. 157.)

Letter postage shall be charged on all mail matter, not lawfully franked or entitled to pass free, when not so wrapped or secured as to permit of its examination without destroying the wrapper. (Sec. 135.)

Letter postage shall be charged on all mail matter which is wholly or partly in writing, except book manuscripts and corrected proofs passing between authors and publishers, and local or drop letters; on all printed matter which is so marked as to convey any other or further information than is conveyed by the original print, except the correction of mere typographical errors; on all matter which is sent in violation of law or the regulations of the Department respecting inclosures; and on all matter to which no specific value of postage is assigned. (Sec. 156.)

Manuscript for publication in newspapers, magazines, or periodicals, is subject to letter postage. (Sec. 156.)

Letter postage shall be charged on mail matter subject to less than letter rates, in which is inclosed or concealed any letter, memorandum, or other thing, or upon which is any writing or memorandum; except—

1. The publishers of newspapers may print or write upon their publications sent to regular subscribers, the address of the subscriber, and the date when the subscription expires, and may inclose their bills and subscription thereto, without subjecting such publication to extra charge. (Sec. 141.)

2. No extra postage shall be charged for a card printed or impressed upon an envelope or wrapper. (Secs. 142. 143.)

Letters prepaid one full rate shall be forwarded, charged with the amount due, to be collected on delivery. (Sec. 151.)

Letters wholly unpaid shall be sent to the Dead Letter Office, but when, by inadvertence, they reach their destination, double the prepaid rates should be collected on delivery. (Secs. 152, 195.)

The ruling of the Department, in September, in answer to Postmasters, is as follows: No. 18, Sec. 152, of the new Postal Code, is held to apply to matter partially prepaid, and Postmasters should rate up the unpaid for weight at double rates, to be collected at the office of delivery.

Under this ruling, on all mailable matter, when not fully paid, the unpaid rates are to be rated double and collected on delivery. For instance, a letter or paper upon which is paid one rate, but upon which two are due, six cents will be collected when delivered.

SECOND CLASS.

This class embraces all matter exclusively in print, and regularly issued at stated periods from a known office of publication, without addition by writing, mark or sign.—(Sec. 132)

THIRD CLASS.

This class embraces all pamphlets, occasional publications, transient newspapers, magazines, hand-bills, posters, unsealed circulars, prospectuses, books, book manuscripts, proof-sheets, corrected proof-sheets, maps, prints, engravings, blanks, flexible patterns, samples of merchandise not exceeding twelve ounces in weight, sample cards, photographic paper, letter envelopes, postal envelopes and wrappers, cards, plain and ornamental paper, photographic representations of different types, seeds, cuttings, bulbs, roots, scions, and all other matter which may be declared mailable by law, and all other articles not above the weight prescribed by law, which are not from their form or nature, liable to destroy, deface, or otherwise injure the contents of the mail bag, or the person of any one engaged in the postal service. All liquids, poisons, glass, explosive materials, and obscene books shall be excluded from the mails. All matter of the third class, excepting books and other printed matter, book manuscripts, proofsheets, and corrected proof-sheets, shall not exceed twelve ounces in weight, and all matter of the third class shall be subject to examination and to rates of postage as hereinafter provided. Samples of metals, ores, and mineralogical specimens shall not exceed twelve ounces in weight, and shall be subject to examination and to rates of postage as hereinafter provided.—Sec. 133)

On mailable matter of the third class, except as herein stated, postage shall be charged at the rate of one cent for each two ounces or fraction thereof. Double these rates shall be charged for books, samples of metals, ores, minerals, and merchandise prepaid by postage stamps.—(Sec. 163.)

NOTE.—All the articles enumerated under the third class must be open so as to admit of examination, otherwise they are chargeable with letter postage. Notched envelopes are chargeable with letter postage. Compliments of the author, or writing upon the fly-leaf of a book or wrapper subject to the same to letter postage. Writing upon a newspaper in pencil or ink, or upon the cover, subjects

The Lesson of the Election.

The election is over, the excitement it occasioned has measurably subsided, the adherents and friends of the candidates have settled down into their respective situations, and it is possible now to take a calm and dispassionate retrospect of the contest. Will such a course be profitable? It will, if thus the errors of the campaign are perceived, and its lessons heeded. Political parties are representatives of political ideas, and the successful party may be said fairly to represent the average political ideas of the country. These are not always the highest, or the purest, but, such as they are, they control the destinies of the nation, and will continue to control them. You may not feel willing to endorse the average idea, as you see it represented in the party which is its exponent; but you are wholly unable to overthrow it and helpless to resist its rule. Your only course is to accept it. Since you are a unit in the column whose sum when footed up, makes the country, and since no person is more than a unit, you may claim the full value of your individuality in making up the average, but when it is thus made up, true policy dictates that you submit.

The plainest lesson of the Presidential election just past is that the personal ambition of no individual, no matter what his standing may be, nor how highly he may be esteemed by the public, can be permitted to interfere with the quiet and peaceful administration of the Government; that charges against the personal conduct of the Chief Executive of the nation, before they can be allowed to prevail as reasons for his removal from office, must refer to such conduct as affects the welfare or the dignity of the nation, and not merely such as affects a few of its principal citizens. The campaign against President Grant was not only a campaign that did not pretend to be founded upon any principle of opposition to the platform of the Republican party, to which he was in all things faithful, but it scarcely even claimed to implicate the President in any transaction that had, or could have, any unfavorable bearing upon national interests. It was simply a personal matter. The burden of the charges against the President, was that he had appointed too many of his relations to office. He was a nepotist. Take away this and the heinous offence of being fond of horses, and you take away all there was to be said against Grant, on the showing of his adversaries themselves. The calumnies of a worse nature which were brought forward were not maintained with any degree of persistence.

Mr. Trumbull wanted more power with the Administration than President Grant was willing to allow him. Mr. Greeley thought there had not been proper consideration shown him by the appointing power. Mr. Sumner had been removed from the Chairmanship of the Committee on Foreign Relations, under circumstances that wounded his pride and displeased many of his friends. These were all men whom the whole nation loved to honor. Two of them were leading members of the United States Senate, with reputations wider than the nation, and as wide as the English-speaking world. The third was the acknowledged chief of American journalists. And yet the public would not even listen to their personal complaints.

If such men, with the aid of many others scarcely less prominent than themselves, and the alliance of the Democracy, could not produce a serious disaffection in the Republican ranks, it is hardly to be supposed that any combination that can be formed will be able to do so. Nothing less than an organization founded upon national principles and taking issue with the Republicans upon vital questions of national policy, can reasonably expect ever to supplant the Republican party. Those misguided Republicans who left the party, must abandon its fundamental principles also, and bring forward something besides their personal grievances, if they would succeed. And then their success will depend upon the question whether they can induce the country to adopt their principles. It is demonstrated that no man can get up a national issue on the proposition that he and his associates have not been properly appreciated by the President.

Peace in Mexico.

Only twice in a long series of years has Mexico been at peace with herself. The first time was just after the close of the struggle against the attempt of Napoleon to establish a European monarch on the throne of the Montezumas. The second is the present time.

The country was exhausted by the French war to an extent that would have been almost sufficient of itself to prevent any very general uprising soon after the close of that struggle. Add to this the great prestige that had been gained by President Juarez during the contest, and the rigid police regulations maintained by him in the principal cities till the excitement produced by the sudden collapse of the Empire, abated, and it is easy to perceive that there were facts by which the peace that followed the dethronement of Maximilian may be explained without assuming any permanent improvement in the general character of Mexican politics. There were manifest causes sufficient to produce that season of apparent health, without the eradication of the chronic malady of rebellion from the Mexican mind.

Conspiracies and insurrections have come to be recognized as institutions of that unfortunate republic until no one is ever surprised to hear of a fresh outbreak. Thus it was generally expected that the repose that followed the catastrophe at Queretaro, would be but temporary, and such the sequel proved to be the truth. The calm was only momentary, and the storm that followed lasted without abatement till the death of Juarez.

The accession of Lerdo de Tejada to the Presidency seems to have restored harmony to the nation. Gen. Porfiero Diaz, who has been to the insurrection even more than Robert E. Lee was to the great rebellion in this country, has given his parol and gone to the capital, while the other leaders in the movement, laying down their arms, retire peaceably to their homes, and Mexico enjoys respite from the strifes that have for so many years distracted her.

How long the reign of peace will continue, is, of course, mere matter of conjecture. The character of the Mexican people, and of Mexican ideas and institutions, is not such as to give the most flattering promise for the future. Tejada is, perhaps, the best qualified to make a strong government, of all the public men of the Republic. He has considerable familiarity with American institutions, having some years ago, spent much time in the United States. He was the leading member of the Juarez Cabinet, during the war with France, and, it is said, was regarded by the President as the only person in his confidence, who possessed the requisite nerve to meet the exigencies of such an hour. Whether he will prove strong enough for the demands of his present position, remains to be seen.

It would seem from the San Francisco dispatches that R. M. Lee, one of the attorneys of the Brothertons, is likely to be sent along to keep them company in their compulsory sojourn at San Quentin. He is arrested on a charge of having abetted them in their escape from jail, and his bail is fixed at $10,000. Doubtless he was the person to whom the Judge referred in his instruction to the Grand Jury. If he is innocent this will prove a very great hardship upon him, for no member of the bar could live down a charge of such a nature, thus publicly made, absent of a long series of years. If he is guilty it is to be hoped his conviction and punishment may have a salutary effect upon the other creatures in the profession, to whom the severe language of Judge Stanley's charge is applicable.

The Blue Mountain Sentinel, a Democratic paper, published at La Grande, says, "Verily we believe that one O'Conor, who has been working in the interest of the Radicals, has given the county to Grant."

The majority for John Haley, Democratic candidate for delegate to Congress from Idaho, is about 700. Idaho City Gent Republican.

The Blue Mountain Sentinel says Judge L. O. Stearns "has cut loose from the Radicals" and voted for Greeley.

The following are the majorities in the State, as nearly as can be ascertained. The official vote of some of these counties has not been announced, but it will not be very far from this table:

THE TERRITORIES.

A California exchange prints the present terminus of the N. P. R. R. near Olympia, "Tegoo."

The telegraphic cable to connect San Juan and Lopez Islands has reached its destination and will soon be laid.

Seattle cast 556 votes at the recent election, being an increase of 134 upon the number cast at the same place two years ago.

The Utah wheat this year, it is said, is in quality equal to the best on the coast, and the Mormons have 1,000,000 bushels surplus.

About $1,000 changed hands on the election result in Walla Walla. The coin went in a direction disgusting to good Garfielde men.

A man went into the District Court at Olympia to get his naturalization papers, and carried a large pair of saddle bags with him to put them in.

George W. Case and other officers of the Northern Pacific Railroad, made the trip from San Francisco to St. Paul, via Omaha and Sioux City, in five and a half days.

Professor Elliott, of the Smithsonian Institute at Washington, has been traveling in Alaska. His marriage with the daughter of the Russian ex-Governor, Max Wergt, is announced.

The following rather curious item appears in the Salt Lake City Herald: The paymaster's car of the Atlantic and Pacific Railway ran into a hand car on Friday at Stanton, Missouri. Barney Jonathan was killed and severely injured.

Walla Walla county gave McFadden 223 majority over Garfielde and elected the entire Democratic ticket, except Auditor and one County Commissioner. The proposition to build a new Court House and jail carried by a majority of 212.

Mr. Brooks started from the coal mines near Seattle on Tuesday last to cross Lake Washington in a canoe. The canoe upset and he lost his paddle. He got astride of the canoe and drifted twenty miles to Squak Slough, where he landed and returned to the mines by land, but little the worse for his long and fearful exposure.

Among the attorneys attending the District Court at Olympia the past week were C. B. McFadden, Delegate elect to Congress; Frank Clark, H. G. Struve, Allen Bros., J. G. Sparks, R. F. Dennison, Elwood Evans, J. L. Wynne, S. D. Wingard, United States District Attorney; A. G. Cook, Leander Holmes, Hazard Stevens and C. C. Hewitt.

The attempted assassination of Dr. Calhoun on Monday night last, gave rise to a lively incident for the people of Port Townsend the next day. The shooting being the topic of general talk that evening, we are told that Mr Swan volunteered the remark that it was all an electioneering dodge on the part of Calhoun. This coming to the ears of the Doctor the next morning, he went for Mr. Swan, and gave him a severe caning.

The Seattle Dispatch says: "We are informed that at the time it was announced in the Olympia papers that Mr. Garfielde had suddenly left for parts unknown, he was lying in that city dangerously sick with an attack of asthma, similar to that of which Mr. Th. mas recently died, and at one time his friends had despaired of his recovery. In his absence Mr Garfielde and his family have the sympathy of all right minded people."

Hilary Butler has received a contract to erect poles and stretch the wire along the line of the railroad as far as now built, from Kalama to Tenino. He has been engaged on his contract during the last two weeks, and will likely finish in a week or two more. The Company's wire stretches along the top of the poles, and the wire of the Western Union Telegraph Company is being changed to the same route and placed just below that of the Railroad Company.

The people of Steilacoom have purchased the old material of the Argus office for the purpose of having a newspaper at that place. It went up from Port Townsend on Saturday last. Julius Dickens, Esq., will assume the publication. What its name is to be we have not yet been informed. In this connection we would state that Mr. Pottygrove is getting new material from San Francisco, and the Argus will again appear, bright as a new dollar, in a few weeks. So says the Intelligencer.

Notices under the head of Births, Marriages and Deaths will be charged ten cents per line. Not less than fifty cents for any notice.

FRIDAY MORNING, NOVEMBER 15 1872

CITY.

STAG CAPTURED —Quite an exciting chase took place opposite the little town of Springville a few days ago as the schooner Mollie Bemis was on her way to this port from Tillamook Some hounds had started a young buck several miles back from the river, and the animal being hard pressed, took to the water just as the tug and schooner came past The stag plunged into the water and started to swim to the opposite shore closely pursued by the hounds Mr Dean Shattuck jumped into a small skiff with his gun, and gave chase Coming up within range he discharged his rifle at the deer The shot did not take effect Two other men on the schooner jumped in the little boat attached to the vessel with their guns in hand and headed for the struggling animal By extra exertions the two men managed to head off the stag A well aimed ball, caused the deer to 'pass in his checks,' which was indicated by a leap out of the water, a plunge, and the lifeless carcass floated down on the bosom of the stream The two men caught the body and brought it, with no small degree of triumph, to the schooner The owners of the hounds, who had witnessed the whole procedure, strongly insisted on an equal division of the spoil But as the demand was not made until after the schooner and tug had both swung out into the stream, the request was not complied with The parties on the shore were informed that if they wanted to taste some of the venison they could do so by coming to Portland, a compliment which was coolly declined

ROADWAY —Until a few months ago funeral carriages from this city and East Portland were compelled during the dreary winter months to wade through the mud, often several feet deep, on the base line road from the end of L street to the Lone Fir and Catholic Cemeteries Some enterprising persons early in the season circulated a paper for subscriptions to be applied toward the planking of that stretch of road Plank was purchased and the work has went bravely forward with but little interruption, until a good roadway has been laid from the bridge at the eastern terminus of L street to a point opposite the Lone Fir Cemetery Most of the distance there is but a single roadway but a double track has been laid at intervals to allow teams to pass each other We are informed that there is already enough money subscribed to continue the roadway on to the Catholic Cemetery. It is to be hoped this much needed work will proceed before the season further advances

SKINNED HIS NOSE —A Chinaman and a butch er boy engaged yesterday in an altercation The affair terminated by the boy launching at his ad versary's head a large beef bone The missile was accurately aimed, for one corner struck John square on the bridge of his proboscis The nasal organ was most effectually skinned, and the owner went sprawling on the sidewalk The boy seeing what was done, made his escape through the back part of the shop The Chinaman ran to the Police Court to procure a warrant for the arrest of the boy The matter will probably come up for hearing before Judge Denny this morning

VALUABLE METAL.—Some quartz rock was forwarded a few days ago to Mr J H Fisk of this city, to be subjected to a thorough test of their mineral bearing qualities The rock was sent from Douglas county, where large quantities are found From certain indications, the quartz is thought to contain a percentage of platina, and it is to ascertain this fact that the rock is being assayed As yet, Mr Fisk has made but a par tial analysis, but he will be enabled to determine beyond question whether or not a percentage of this very valuable metal can be discovered, in a few days

CLOSING UP —A large force of workmen were engaged yesterday in closing up the steamship dock along the side fronting on the river Several large openings will be left at intervals, which will be opened or closed by means of sliding doors When a ship is in port, these doors can be thrown open, and through the openings freight can be transferred from the vessel to the dock, or once versa By this means a greater degree of comfortcan be secured to the clerks and men employed about the wharf, as the cold winds which sweep up the river will be barred out.

SNOW EAST OF THE CASCADES.—From parties out of the mountains, we learn that snow at Walla Walla and Wallula, Wednesday evening, had fallen to the depth of fourteen inches The weather was very cold at that place, with but little indications of a thaw. At the Dalles and vicinity, the snow was six or seven inches deep The opinion of the "oldest inhabitants" in that section is that the coming winter will be of an unusual length and severity

WEATHER.—Snow still lingers on the streets, although the temperature rose perceptibly yester day There was a slight thaw about noon, but a cold, cutting, northeast wind soon caused the thermometer to fall This instrument stood as follows yesterday: 7 A M, 30°, 2 P M, 33°, 9 P M, 32° The sky was overcast with light clouds last night, and the wind did not abate any of its violence

NEW LIBRARY —The Advocate says The Taylor street M E. Sunday School commenced distributing from their new library on last Sabbath to the great enjoyment of the pupils There are 626 volumes of the choicest, freshest Sunday School books that could be selected A large number of other volumes have been ordered from the East, and will no doubt be here in a few weeks.

TAKING AN INVENTORY —Several parties are still engaged in taking an inventory of the stock of goods injured by the recent fire at L Baum & Co. As soon as the inventory is made appraisers will be appointed, who will examine the damaged stock and estimate the loss for the benefit of the two insurance companies in which Mr. Baum had insured his stock

WORK TO CLOSE.—Owing to the present in clement weather, and promise of an early winter, it is probable that work on the new Court House will soon be suspended until next spring It will be nearly impossible to finish the stone work about the building before the return of good weather.

INSANE MAN —Sheriff McAuliff, of Walla Walla, came down on the Dalles boat last eve ning He had in custody an insane man named Ludwig Margerum, on the way to the asylum at Salem. W T Margerits is a Prussian by birth, aged about 50 years and unmarried

NEARLY DONE —The work of grading I street from Fourth to Sixteenth streets, East Portland is nearly completed It is expected to have the grade for the entire distance finished and ready for travel in a few weeks more

EXTENSIVE LOAN —We understand that with in the last few days, a loan of $10,000 has been negotiated between certain parties in this city, on one year's time The money was probably loaned for speculative purposes

COUNTY COURT —The County Court will convene to-morrow for the purpose of inspecting the various plans submitted for the iron fence to surmount the stone coping around the Court House block

MORE BILLS —Several bills were returned to the Circuit Court last evening by the Grand Jury We are unable to state whether the bills returned were true ones or not

LINE DOWN —The O S N Co 's telegraph line was down yesterday between Portland and the Dalles, caused by the rough weather and snow in the mountains

MOTION DAY —In accordance with the established custom of the Circuit Court to-morrow will be set apart expressly for the hearing and deciding of motions

READY —Philharmonic Hall, after being thoroughly overhauled and treated to a new coat of paint and kalsomine, is again thrown open to the public.

PASSED OVER —The English ship Star of Iscad sailed with wheat for Liverpool crossed the bar last Wednesday, in tow of the tug Astoria

DELAYED:—Owing to some delay, the steamer Gleaner did not leave her wharf yesterday for Oregon City until nearly five o'clock

AT ASTORIA.—The bark Norworth, from Victoria, is lying at Astoria, awaiting a tow to come to this city.

The third rendition of "The Detective" drew a full house last evening at Oro Fino Theatre

Mrs G B Waldron, one of the favorite actresses with this public, will be tendered a complimentary benefit at Oro Fino Theatre this evening This lady, by the purity of her private life, tact and talent on a modest member of the histrionic profession, and her habitual painstaking efforts to please, has won the sincere esteem and respect of the public More especially in the hearts of that class who attend the theater regularly, has she won a warm niche What Mrs Waldron may lack in those elements which constitute a great actress, the deficiency is fully supplied from the possession of the rare qualities of womanly worth a generous heart and unassuming merit Expressly for the occasion will be produced the beautiful drama of 'East Lynne' The claim on the public which the beneficiary has for past and present efforts, besides the character of the piece, should be a sufficient inducement to draw a crowded house

BUSINESS NOTICES.

A heavy pair of boots or shoes is what is wanted for wear now, and the place to get them is at Pease's, who adver ises

These are cold days and the nights are still colder To sleep warm and comfortable is one of the luxuries of life Reasonable people will not suffer long, when they find that Messrs Hargrave & Shindler have on hand a large stock of winter blankets and warm bedding of all kinds. Give them a call and see for yourselves.

SMART DISCOVERED —The secret of dressing is not so much in expensive clothing as in the perfect fit of the garments This fact is thoroughly understood by Bichel & Roberts corner of First and Washington streets, hence they employ thereby an aggregation Their stock is complete in every department If you would keep warm this winter, goods, will or delay not to call at Bichel & Roberts' winter goodss You will certainly experience no trouble in selecting from the new goods recently received at this house Those who have once dealt with them rarely ever change, for neither fair dealing and courteous treatment make business

If you have not already ordered a fall or winter suit, you should delay not a day The work turned out by J O Noll & Co is First street, is considered by gentlemen of taste as A No 1 The materials used are of the very best quality To make room for new goods some important improvements have been made Rather than they keep the old furnishing goods, make fitting suits and offer goods at prices that must with favor among all classes

TAKE IT IN TIME —Coughs and colds will not wait They are deceptive and the patient often imagines himself better even when he has not used the proper treatment for curing Attend to it at once Wistar Balsam of Wild Cherry is our oldest cure for these complaints.

The Statesman says A famous horse man of this State gives it as his opinion that the Lplzootics will get to Oregon after awhile In that case will it not be well for some of our Democratic war horses to have care? Only thing of Heim, Gates, Nesmith, etc, with the "Lplzootics"

The Sentinel learns that last week a Mr Patrick while working in Red Gulch, Baker county, met with a severe accident from the caving of a bank, by which both bones of the right leg were broken He was a hard working and industrious man, and had a family at Auburn Money was raised by donation and assistance rendered

Sam Jon (the Chinese woman who tried to burn up another Chinese woman with kerosene at La Grande,) was allowed to plead guilty to simple assault, for the reason that the Chinese witnesses did not or would not testify against her She was sentenced to pay a fine of $50, or in default of payment, to be confined in the county jail 25 days.

On Friday last a young girl was approaching the railroad track near Milwaukie's store, in Brady s Bend, and was carrying two buckets of water The locomotive was coming down the valley at the time, when the girl stopped to let it pass before crossing A man standing by told the girl she was afraid to cross the track before the locomotive, when instantly, at the banter, she started, but had not taken two steps when the engine came thundering along striking and crushing her almost to atoms, portions of her body being gathered up with a shovel —Pittsburg Gazette Nov 2.

This wonderful vegetable restorative is the sheet-anchor of the feeble and debilitated. As a tonic and cordial for the aged and languid it has no equal among stomachics. As a remedy for the nervous weakness to which women are especially subject, it is superseding every other stimulant. In all climates, tropical, temperate or frigid, it acts as a specific in every species of disorder which undermines the bodily strength and breaks down the animal spirits.

Another Oratorical Luminary.

Mr. Representative Onstein, of Baker county, has a rival, if not a superior, in the field of oratory. Only a few short weeks ago, Mr. Onstein made his debut before the admiring world, and immediately he took his place as the first man of the nation, in point of forensic ability, but already the man has appeared, in the shape of Capt. John Fennessy, of Covington, Kentucky, who is destined to prove the peer of Onstein—perhaps to eclipse him. He may not be so ponderous, but he will make it all up in brilliancy. Here is his speech, delivered just before the election, and reported for the Washington Chronicle:

GENTLEMEN: I accept your invitation, your unexpected invitation, to fill in the time before my friend, Mr. Fitzgerald, gets here, with no inconsiderable confusion. But as he may come in any minute, I will attempt to say something before he gets here. [Encouraging cheers and cries of "Go ahead."] If my discolitory remarks meet your approbation, I shall feel that life has not been to me a vain labor. ["Good;" "Sot 'em up."] But, preliminarily, I regret to see so many vacant chairs unoccupied. ["Three cheers for Fennessy!"] My friends, I will take the liberty to say to all within my hearing, that my distinguished friend from Cincinnati, who comes here like another Cincinnatus to address us this evening, and whom we are all proud to know by reputation, should have a bigger welcome—d'ye understand? ["We do!"] This magnificent hall—if I may be allowed a figure of speech—ought to be filled to the ceiling with our yeomanry, with the boys hanging to the windows on the outside. [A voice, "By their eyelids."] As we need to say in Ireland, where my friend Fitzgerald and I both emanated from, he to become a lawyer and statesman, and me an unpretending merchant, you should meet him with a cead mille faithe, which means a thousand welcomes. [Applause, with a very distinguished Milesian accent.]

My friends, this is not the time to reason for the high purposes which should govern a great people struggling to the end that we know is right, and knowing dare maintain them, and which should always prevail. You understand? ["Yes," "yes;" "Go on"] It is well you may say yes, gentlemen. For what do we now see? I would remark, that on the other hand, understand, the most gigantic frauds that the Christian world ever beheld, are encouraged by force and disparagement, and with the most overwhelming dissimulation. Twenty thousand ballot-boxes stuffed in Philadelphia alone, and in a single day! It is enough to make the angels weep and consider. We must, as patriots, and having the well-being of our country at stake, understand, scorning the turpitude of these things, repel force and dissimulation with force and dissimulation. ["That's so." "You're right."] Yes, man to man, and breast to breast, we must meet it. Vi et Hermes. [The audience took this as a compliment to Mr. Hermes, the President of the Club, and applauded it to the echo with "Long life to Hermes," "You're right."]

And why? Not that these things are to be thus. No. Perish the thought! Correctly speaking, what does it all mean? It does. Do you, do any of us, does Father Charlson there or Colonel Tarvin comprehend in their full force the results which we all know, and feel, too? Do you understand? Why, then, the blessings of peace and reconciliation fleeting along on the tide of time are soon to be no more. [Sensation.] Behold the picture! Family government all round us, and filling the atmosphere like a poisonous piasmia! Its contemplation transfigures me with indignation. I feel as though I was on fire! [Cries of "Put him out!" "Down on her!" "Hold the Butt!" "Swash her!" intermingled with hisses.] Gentlemen, I won't born for intimidation; I am not to be stulled; Sic Semper McManus. ["Too true."] But as I am informed that my friend Fitzgerald has arrived, I will give way to him.

[Here the speaker, who, during his harangue, had been traveling at a Weston pace from one end of the stage to the other, pausing a given point once a minute, and gesticulating all the while with a grace that would have killed George Francis Train with envy had he witnessed it, suddenly paused and dropped into a seat. But, as with the elder Kean at his debut at Drury Lane, the house "rose at him," and cries of "No," "Out of that," "At 'em, again, old fellow." "D—n Jimmy Fitzgerald," "Finish your speech, if it takes all summer," &c., all might have been heard to the other side of the Ohio river. He was finally persuaded to resume.]

My fellow citizens, excuse me; it was a momentary irascibility. I misunderstood you, and misunderstandings, you know, frequently lead to mistakes. [Such the best of us feel, and such is the fate of man! [Tremendous applause, the audience again taking their seats.] I will indulge upon your patience but a few moments longer, understand. You will all agree, my friends, that the day of lethargy has subsided. It is a thing of the past, and may it always remain so. ["Good."] We must arouse and work until that glorious champion of liberty and the diffusion of free speech, Horace Greeley, [immense applause,] is securely seated, where, in God's providence, the highest aims of mankind are achieved, and the blessings of free Government restored and disenthralled. [Renewed applause.] What means this election? Methinks I perceive the car of progress spinning along the pathways of civilization, if we only do our duty. We must put our shoulders to the wheel. That can't be done by putting your hands in your pockets. [Voice from a member of the Finance Committee, "You are mistaken, for we can do nothing without money!"] The Captain proceeded without noticing the interruption. We must all do our duty, one and indivisible. Then will the cause of our undertaking redound to the eternal fame of future events, when the last trump ["How is that for high?"] shall speak in thunder tones and awaken the oppressed of the whole world. [Great applause.] Then let us so live that when we come to die we are able to do it. It is the gallied jade that winks. ["Just so. Let her wink."] Think of it! Jobs of all kinds; railroad Grants, the worst of all the Grants, [laughter,] forty-four millions more of money to be thrown upon a country that has no specie basis; corruption everywhere, and the fell spirit of nepotism pervading our very hearthstones!

"O judgment! thou art fled to brutish beasts,
And men have lost their wits and reds!"

Can we, as the sons of sires, can we any longer submit? No! Never! The spirit of arbitration is abroad in the land, Greeley and triumph is in the air. They are emblazoned everywhere.

"The weeping wave and boundless river
Go mingling with their fame forever."

[Cries of "Splendid," "Give us some more," and much applause.] And when all shall have been finished—ipso factum—as it already must appear to the most demoralized, I want to see this magnificent hall illuminated, as it were, with joy, for our victory should reverberate, as it were. It will be a triumph over family government, ["Bully," from some small boys,] over speculation, over fraud, over unjust discriminations, over monopolies, over dishonest officials, over negroism, egotism, and that worst of all isms, nepotism, which will be the everlasting ruin of the country if it is not immediately overthrown and demolished. Let us, then, do our duty, Fiat justitia rurum conceat ei. You understand? ["We do!" and applause.]

Thanking you, gentlemen, for your patient attention, I will now proceed to stop, and introduce my friend, my distinguished friend, as I before remarked, the Hon. James Fitzgerald.

Captain Fennessy sat down as Mr Fitzgerald got up, but it was some time before the latter could obtain a hearing, so deafening and long continued were the cheers which greeted the conclusion of the Captain's amazing speech.

Barnum's "lightning calculator," whose name is William S. Hutchings, has forsaken the show business and taken to relating his religious experience. He made his first appearance as a speaker in New York the other night, and to begin with offered a peculiar prayer, in which, according to the Sun, he expressed a hope that "as there was no run on the bank of divine grace, the sinners present might be allowed to draw on the heavenly exchequer."

About Shoeing Horses.

A writer in the Farm and Fireside has some sensible talk on the subject of shoeing horses! We say sensible because we know, from actual observation, the truth of much that he says:

I drive and work a span of 1,000 lb. horses which have not had shoes on their feet for five years, and never on their hind feet, and I always regretted the mistake of putting shoes on their fore feet, even in one Winter. I would all heavy hauling while ice prevails, but drive them even up and down hills, and as fast as the law of shod horses. They were made lame by shoeing, but never since, and their hoofs are almost as hard as iron its If. So, I say, keep shoes off colts as long as possible. If their feet become tender, let nature have a little time to increase her powers of resistance, then go again. It is amazing to all inveterate horse-shoers to see what substantial work nature will do for the feet of our horses, if we only give permission. Against the practice of early, constant and indiscriminate shoeing, I urge the following considerations, viz: The time, trouble and cost, the breaking of a hoof—by shoeing and becoming tender—if a shoe comes off unawares or at a distance from a blacksmith, the liability to distressing limpings and constant lameness from interfering corks; the habitual corking of themselves, causing long times of lameness and often split hoof for life; the serious consequences that attend the lacking of sharp shod horses, putting of iron weights upon those extremities that Nature intended to be as light as possible. My young span "Lightfoot" and "Fleetwing," who easily go three and a half miles to the postoffice and return, in from forty to sixty minutes, are not likely very soon to exchange the elastic step to the light shod Yankee for the dead tramp of the English peasant, whose double-soled, iron-spiked, or plated clogs are well nigh inhuman. I have known very heavy horses, unshod when young, attain an elastic, light step that lasted all their lives, even though shod at a later period.

"But do your horses never fall upon the ice?"

I answer yes, about as often as the shod ones, and with this difference they have thereby damaged themselves with their eyer dangerous corks, while mine are unharmed, and soon learn better than to fall if ever so icy. I speak not of heavy draft horses on macadamized streets and levees, or of roadsters in a rock-bound country, but of prairie farm horses, and thousands of others, too, which are so very needlessly shod. I say, begin right with the next colt, and keep the horse-shoeing shop off the farm.

The great dainty that a Chinaman's palate craves is "fan chow, the flower of tea"—the imperial tea-bloom, the priceless beverage of Chinese extravagance. A San Francisco reporter was shown a small quantity of the almost priceless luxury, put up in a highly ornamented box of sandal wood, six alternate layers of perfumed rice paper and silk being used to preserve it from the effects of the atmosphere. Rolled in balls, twisted into the rolls, tied in little bunches, like cigarettes at one end, and whipped into shreds at the other, was the tea flower, packed in loose petals of its own kind to preserve its fragrance. It is grown on the plantation of a very rich mandarin in the province of Foo Chow, and can only be procured from him or his agent in Pekin. There was once a law forbidding its export, but even Americans now buy and drink it. It costs $16 50, gold, per pound in China, and cannot to sold in San Francisco for less than $20 00 per pound.

The following interesting incident occurred the other day before the Southern Claims Commissioners; In the hearing of the claim of Mrs. Anna M. Fitzhugh, a colored man named Ward, an old family servant was put upon the stand to prove the loyalty of the claimant and he recited many instances of Mrs. F.'s loyalty, and among others the following: One morning in April, 1861, Colonel Lee (afterward Major General Lee, of the Confederate forces) came up to Mrs. Fitzhugh's house to see her. He informed him she had not yet risen from her bed, she being at the time in ill health. "Give my love to her," said Col. Lee, "and tell her that I am going to Richmond." When Mrs. F. arose that day he told of Col. Lee's visit, and she replied, "Oh, I am so sorry that such a good man would take up such a bad cause."

The London Daily News says that Earl Russell is about to publish a volume of "Essays on the Rise and Progress of the Christian Religion in the West of Europe, from the Reign of Tiberius to the End of the Council of Trent."

The Great Fire in Boston.

To-day's telegrams bring us no important additional information in regard to the effect of the Boston fire on the already much depressed condition of the country. That the calamity will be felt in the business circles throughout the country is not doubted, but upon the New England States the effect will be most distressing, as in Boston centered many of the leading interests of those States. Already in the Eastern cities several classes of goods have been marked up from 6 to 10 per cent, and in one or two instances even higher, while the rates of insurance has been generally increased throughout the whole country, both by home and foreign companies. This enhanced insurance is the principal immediate effect realized on this coast already.

The amount of losses sustained by the various companies, as far as yet reported, are about as follows: North American $100,000; Union National, $34,000; Delaware Mutual, $100,000; Pame, $20,000; Franklin, $500,000; Girard, $500,000; Pennsylvania, $300,000; State of Pennsylvania, $400,000; American, $300,000; People's, Mass., $500,000; First National, $50,000; Bay State, $100,000; Merchants' and Farmers', $201,000. Boston Insurance Companies lose heavily, as do the New York and also the foreign Companies—particulars not given. Firemen's Fund, $50,000. Liverpool and London, about $1,500,000. The total amount covered by insurance is said to be over $50,000,000, and the total loss is estimated at between $75,000 and $90,000. Doubtless particulars by mail will change these figures and implicate companies not named in the above list. The presumption seems to prevail that some few of those companies will be able to meet these extraordinary losses, while others, and perhaps the majority, will sink under the extreme pressure.

The estimated loss of wool alone is $11,000,000, which is likely above the actual loss of raw material. The loss to the shoe and leather trade is also exceedingly large, as a great deal of the trade in these commodities centered in the ill-fated city. No estimate of these losses has yet been sent us, nor have we at hand any data upon which to base such estimate.

Home Finances.

Our local money market to-day presents no important features not heretofore noted, and the same uncertain feeling existing as observed early in the week, induced by the fire in Boston. Upon inquiry, we find that transactions are being limited daily, the volume of them in money matters the past week being considerably under that of any single week since October 1st. We hear more complaint of a want of promptness on the part of dealers in the interior in making their remittances. The demand for funds to purchase grain has also fallen off.

Home Produce Market.

Wheat, in the week now specially under review, has come forward in fair quantities, the most of it going into the vessels here receiving cargoes. The Reporter estimates the amount purchased in the interior, to arrive, at 7,000 tons. San Francisco quotations give the market dull, with shippers unwilling to pay over $1 6 alongside of ship, equal to $1 56 on the wharf, but millers take small lots of extra choice at $1 55@1 62½. Liverpool is quoted at 12s 6d for average lots and 13s for average Club. Exporters in our market continue to offer $1 40 @ cental, sacked.

Oats are still in good demand for local consumption, and we hear of orders from Puget Sound which it seems are a little difficult to fill, on account of the small receipts. It is very clearly seen now that farmers are holding off, in hope to receive a better figure than that now ruling, which for best heavy is $1 40@1 45 @ cental. Some shipments have been made during the week but in small amounts. The surplus crop not being near so large as is that of Wheat, much depends as to prices on the length and severity of our winter. In case the season of cold weather is unusually long, we have no doubt rates for this staple article of stock feed will advance considerably; but should the winter be mild as usual, we see no reason for predicting enhanced prices.

Flour is in good demand, both for local consumption and for export, and were we favored with just ordinarily cheap facilities for transportation, we might expect a brisk trade. As it is, shipments to San Francisco are gradually increasing in volume. The last steamer leaving to be put 2,942 bbls, and the steamship to leave tomorrow can have a full cargo if desired. While as a whole, continue to rule about time. The San Francisco market is reported in jobbing lots at $5 25@5 50 @ bbl for extra and $4 75@5 for choice country, and out side brands $ 87½@4 12½ @ bbl. Our market is quoted in jobbing lots as follows: Extra of Standard brands $5 25@5 75, and for Outside and Superfine $3 75@4 @ bbl.

Barley and Rye are quoted nominally at $1 25@1 25 for the former, and $1 25@1 40 for the latter @ 100 lbs.

Buckwheat is not in the market, though we may note that the price of feed is $1 75@1 80 @ cental.

Onions are fairly supplied and quotable at 1½@2c per lb.

Potatoes remain unchanged, with limited demand at 75c per 100 lbs.

The demand for feed is slightly better, Market quotable at $18@19 per ton for Bran, and $25@30 per ton for Chops, Middlings, etc., with stock accumulating.

Butter is rather plentier than at the close of last week, but choice still commands 45c @ lb, while inferior ranges downward to 25c @ lb for average cooking. Cheese is supplied from our near dairies, in quantities almost sufficient to fill the demand for home consumption. Eggs are still in demand, and are in the ruling price for fresh. Orders for good could be had with more readiness than the supply coming forward would fill.

Eggs are firmer and dealers eager to purchase at the rates given below.

Beef is quoted at 6@6½c per lb; sheep, $2@3 50 per head, Hogs, not for fat 6c, delivered here.

The volume of trade in the week has been very fair, when we take into consideration the circumstances of the stormy weather prevailing during a greater portion of the week, and the shock given by the news of the Boston fire.
